Find Coal at Bridge | Coroner's Jury Accuse Crippen of Murder | Blackhand in B. C.

WILFUL MURDER IS JURY'S VERDICT

Coroner's Jury Found Dr. Crippen Guilty of Murdering His Wife.

NOT MUCH NEW EVIDENCE

Jury Convinced That Multitiated Body Was That of Belle Elmore, the Actress.

London, Sept. 26.—The coroner's jury returned a verdict of wilful murder against Dr. Crippen, in connection with the finding in the Crippen residence last July of the mutilated remains of a body supposed to be Crippen's wife. The verdict reached by the jury was to the effect that the mutilated body found buried in the cellar of the Crippen home was that of Cora Crippen who had been wilfully murdered by Dr. Crippen. The verdict added that the cause of death was presumably by the administration of cyanide.

London, Sept. 26.—No evidence beyond that given at the Bow street police court, in the case of Dr. Crippen and Ethel Clare Le Neve, his typist, was produced at the resumed inquiry today of the coroner, into the finding of the mutilated body believed to be that of Belle Elmore, Crippen's actress wife, in their Hill drop Crescent residence and the police made the announcement that they had nothing further to submit. William Long, who was formerly connected with the accused, and who purchased the body's suit, which Miss Le Neve was arrested on board the steamer Montrose off Quebec, was asked by the coroner whether he had ever bought time. He answered in the negative. The chemist from whom Dr. Crippen purchased hyosin, traces of which composed Dr. W. H. Wilcox, the scientific analyst, of the home office, testified he had found in the buried mass of flesh, said that the order for the medicine was given several days before the drug was taken away. He also declared Crippen never personally had purchased hyosin at his pharmacy. The coroner will sum up his case this afternoon.

WANT PAYMENT ON NOTE 11 YEARS OLD

Claim Its Still Good as Voluntary Payments Have Been Made On It Lately.

The case of the Sawyer Massey Co. vs. Weder Bros, adjourned from Saturday, was continued this morning in the district court.

The case has to do with a promissory note issued eleven years ago for machinery purchased through the Weder Bros, of the Sawyer-Massey Co. The defendants took the ground that it had been outlawed by the lapse of the six year limitation or if not outlawed they were not responsible for the payment in view of their assignment. The plaintiffs took the view that the note had not been outlawed as voluntary payments had been made in that time, and produced evidence to that effect.

The question hinged on whether the passing of an act in 1879 in Canada superseded all preceding English law on the point as the defendants urged, in which case a note after the lapse of six years would be legally outlawed.

HEAVY FROST

Winnipeg, Sept. 26.—The first killing frosts of this season occurred last night, extending throughout Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Five degrees of frost were recorded here and garden stuff was damaged badly. Twelve degrees were registered at many points in the west. Harvesting operations, however, are about completed and little damage will result.

WAS A PASSENGER ON "PRINCESS MAY"

Miss Winnifred Dobbin in the City on the Way East From Alaska.

LIKES MEN IN THE YUKON

More Courteous There Than In More Civilized Places—Tells Her Experiences.

A trip right to Dawson City and back all by herself and the experience of being a passenger on the wrecked C.P.R. steamer "Princess May."

This was the experience of Miss Winnifred Dobbin, daughter of Mr. F. H. Dobbin, managing director of the Peterborough Review, and to a Capital reporter this morning she remarked that she is just longing to go back again as soon as possible.

"It gets into your blood and you always want to go back," she said. "Why I men Dr. Hall the other day on the way up from Calgary. He is an old timer in the Yukon who said he would not go back again and yet he is going."

Miss Dobbin was very pleased with what she saw in Dawson.

"The men" she said, "have all got such strong characters and are so courteous no one need be at all afraid of travelling in the country. Why I think it is just as safe for a girl there, if not safer than it is down here. Every one is so kind and the men show more courtesy than they do in more civilized places. Then again you know there are so few women up there that any who do go are fairly idolized."

Miss Dobbin was on the Princess May when she wrecked and afterwards wrote her impression and experience for the Prince Rupert Optimist.

"They gave us two minutes to get dressed and ready to leave the boat," she said. "So I got dressed and grabbed my camera and got into the life boat. And of course I left my purse behind. The passengers were taken to Sentinel Island and after a while were rescued."

While in Prince Rupert Miss Dobbin heard Sir Wilfrid Laurier speak. "All the Indians came into the town to hear him speak, and erected an arch all by themselves in his honor. And it was the prettiest arch I think that I have seen," she said.

"While in Dawson, City Robert Service was there, but Miss Dobbin did not meet him as he left the same day as she arrived. It is to be expected therefore that there will be another book of poems for the publisher shortly."

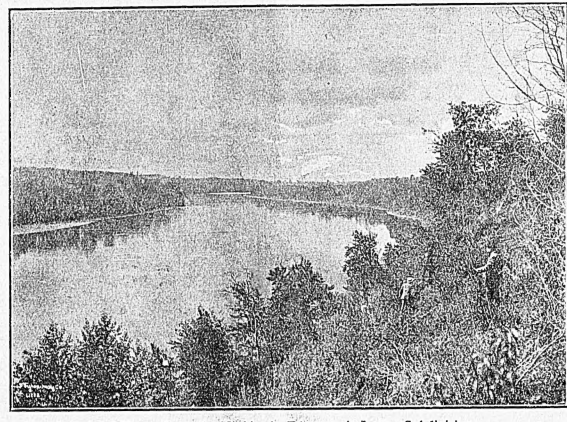

Talking about the mining that is being done at Dawson she said that the old methods around which so many stories had been told, were going out. Now almost all the mines are owned by large firms and corporations, and the mining is done by hydraulic shovels, instead of the pan and the quicksilver.

The mono rail project in Alaska is still in existence, and in the same boat as Miss Dobbin, on the way back from Skagway was Mr. John Rozen who is greatly interested in the mono rail and is at the same time a multimillionaire. Another millionaire was on the same boat was Mr. J. P. Hartman who did such good work for the U. S. A. in the Alaska boundary dispute. Dr. Andrew Grant was another of the passengers. Dr. Grant was the pioneer medical missionary in this country. Many years ago he performed the marvellous feat of riding from Calgary to the McKenzie, in a very short time.

Miss Dobbin who for the last seven months has been on a tour of Canada and the States is now on her way home to Peterborough. She is at present staying with Mr. and Mrs. Pitt at their home at 418 Fourth street.

MEN EMPLOYED ON CITY JOBS NOT FOND OF WORKING HARD?

Complaints Have Been Received by the Commissioners From Rate-payers—Mr. Biquillon Has Noticed It Also.

Recently there have been complaints made to Commissioner Biquillon by ratepayers that men employed on public works have not been carrying on their work as they should. Commenting on these complaints, Mr. Biquillon, this morning stated that the commissioners would look into the matter.

"I have noticed such things myself," he said. "It is not necessary to spy on them to see it either. We intend to take the matter up with the heads of departments, and seek their cooperation in changing conditions."

Commissioner Biquillon stated that the city finds it difficult to secure labor of a good quality and as a result the men already employed take advantage of the shortage.

"Because they happen to be employed by the city there is no reason why they shouldn't do just as much work as men employed by private concerns" he said "and we mean to see that they do it."

SWITCHMAN SENT UP FOR HIS TRIAL

Charged With Manslaughter—Aftermath of Train Being Derailed in Kenora.

HIS DUTY TO TEND LIGHTS

But They Were Not Up as Usual and Engineer Didn't See Open Switch.

Winnipeg, Sept. 26.—Magistrate McMicken, Saturday afternoon committed Frank Leland for trial on a manslaughter charge in connection with the death of a fireman at Kenora, when his engine overturned by derailing on a switch.

Engineer Elliott testified that he did not see the switch, was open until within two or three car lengths. Signalman Upton said that on his arrival after the accident had occurred, he had said, "Well Frank, you've had some bad luck."

The prisoner answered: "I guess I have."

Witness then explained that the lights were not up as usual, it being Leland's duty to do so. He asked Leland to draw the levers, and he would go on a speeder and put the lights himself, but when he went he found the points not turned. Returning, he went to draw the levers, but was prevented and assaulted by Leland. A struggle commenced which was ended by the people from the derailed train.

The quarrel arose from a twenty-five dollars fine imposed on the man because his wife had stolen wood from the C.P.R. The woman may recover.

BLACKHAND IN B. C. TOWN

Frank Julien, a Pioneer Resident, Found Murdered in the Bush.

FOUR ITALIANS BLAMED

Believed It Is a Blackhand Tragedy in Revenge Upon Julien.

Revelstoke, Sept. 25.—Frank Julien, a pioneer resident, was approached by three Italians on Tuesday, who stating they were about to settle nearby, offered to help him clear his land a few days, in return for food and implements. He apparently accepted and Wednesday morning left for Bushland with them.

Not returning a search party was organized and after a three day's hunt they found Julien's mangled remains covered under the brush. The head was fearfully mangled and nearly severed. An axe nearby indicated the hasty flight of the murderers.

Julien was instrumental in the prosecution of several Italians for assaulting his son-in-law, Orsini, particularly in the location of one named Shilde at Calgary, he being subsequently given a jail sentence and the police believe this is a blackhand tragedy in revenge.

Discover a Coal Mine at High Level Bridge

While Digging Excavation for Pier Coal is Found—One Hundred Tons Taken Out Already

While working on the excavation of one of the hard piers of the high level bridge last week on the Edmonton side of the river, a coal mine was uncovered which will, as was stated by Contractor Gunn this morning, be of immense value in construction, besides having the effect of reducing expenses. Since last Wednesday over 100 tons of good coal, equal in quality to any found around here, has been removed, and piled up on the bank.

At present three or four men are engaged in pumping water out and when that work is completed a staff of about twenty men will start working the mine.

Of course, after the hole has been deepened according to specifications, and it is desired that the mining be continued it will be necessary to work it under the bank, but that has not been decided on yet.

It is estimated that enough coal can be mined right on the spot to last throughout a good part of the winter.

The site of the bridge on both sides of the river now presents an animated appearance. Despite the unfavorable weather, a lot of work has been accomplished and there are now over a hundred men in the employ of the contracting firm.

LIVERPOOL TO EDMONTON TO MEET FIANCEE; HE'S MISSING

Nellie Taylor, a Pretty English Girl, Was Found Heartbroken on the Street—Kindly Folk Ta ke Care of Her Until Her Young Man Turns Up.

Friendless and alone on the streets of Edmonton, and weeping bitterly, Nellie Taylor, a pretty English girl, was found on Saturday night, by the clerk of the Pendennis hotel. Between her sobs she explained that she had come from Liverpool to meet her prospective husband in Edmonton and had failed to find him. Her correspondence from him carried the letter head of the Alberta Hotel whither she went immediately on her arrival. Inquiries here and at other hotels failed to locate him and he gradually dawned on her that she was absolutely alone and practically without money in Edmonton. Hence her tearful state when found late at night on the streets.

GAINER ABATTOIR DAMAGED BY FIRE

Strathcona Building Was Badly Guttured by Fire On Saturday Afternoon.

LOSS FIFTEEN THOUSAND

Older Part of Building Completely Destroyed—Cause of Fire Is Unknown.

It is estimated that a loss of $15,000 was sustained by John Gainer and Company as a result of a most disastrous fire which broke out in their slaughter house in Strathcona on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It started in the smoke house and the building, which is of a very inflammable nature, was half burned before the blaze was discovered.

The Strathcona fire department was summoned and quickly had four streams of water playing on the burning building and after an hour's hard work succeeded in getting the flames under control. The fire was in the eastern and older part of the building and they managed to keep it there, the remainder being covered with sheathing, which prevented the sparks from setting it alight.

The main fire was extinguished at 5 p.m., but a stream of water was kept on the building until 9 p.m. Several times the blaze broke out afresh, but was quickly got under control. Half of the building still stands and the work of the abattoir will not be stopped, but operations will be continued today. $5,000 insurance will partially cover the loss of $15,000 sustained by John Gainer and Company.

Paris, Sept. 26.—Hon. MacKenzie King, interviewed here, said that during his stay here he had found that the different countries of Europe are following with close attention the Canadian Industrial Disputes Investigation act. He had had many inquiries from public men re the working of the act and measures drafted along similar lines had been introduced in Sweden and France. King added that the legislation of Canada controlling combines and trusts had also created considerable interest. One or two foreign ministers had expressed to him their intention of sending special investigators to Canada to report to their government on the working of these Canadian laws.

HOT POLITICS

The surprising political turn-over in the State of Maine, must be taken to mean that the Republican party, as it stands at present, has fallen in disfavor with the American people, says the Toronto Star.

Active politicians of the party will naturally deny this, but signs, numerous and widely scattered, have been given of late that the Republican party has lost its hold on the popular imagination.

President Taft appears to be an amiable spectator rather than a director of national policy. He seems to be a smiling passenger rather than the pilot of the ship of state.

The high cost of living, the hollow sham put off on the people in the name of a tariff revision, the dominance of the tariff-fetters, the ineffectiveness of President Taft, and the present total eclipse of the President by his predecessor insofar as popular interest is concerned—a situation without precedent in the history of the Republic—must furnish the explanation of the upheaval in Maine.

Maine has voiced the general insurgency of the Republican party. It is quite possible that the result in Maine will persuade a great many people that the party wants Theodore Roosevelt, and is prepared to go to any length to show it.

FILTRATION OF WATER

The commission of Conservation at Ottawa has sent out the following on water supplies for cities:

The quality of water for human consumption depends upon the polluting and purifying influences to which it has been subjected before reaching the consumer. It is well known that the general health of a community using a sewage-polluted water gradually falls to a lower and the death rate increases proportionately. Of the diseases most frequently following the use of impure water, typhoid fever holds, at the present day, the most prominent place in the public eye. It is a curious fact, as yet unexplained, that the change from an impure water to a pure supply diminishes the death rate and death rate not only from typhoid fever, but also from tuberculosis, pneumonia, and other serious diseases. It is also a fact that in certain cities using a sewage polluted water the death rate from typhoid fever is many times more than that for cities using a filtered water supply taken from the same source.

Generally speaking, there are two methods in use for the filtration of public water supplies; they are known as the "Slow Sand" filtration and "Mechanical" filtration. In the former type, the water filters through beds of sand and gravel at varying rates from two to five million gallons per acre every twenty-four hours, according to the character of the water.
In mechanical filtration, a precipitate is first added to the water which is then passed through a medium of sand under pressure, the rate of filtration being many times more than in the slow sand filters.

The type of filter best suited for any particular water must be carefully considered before adoption by a municipality, and this can only be done by a competent sanitary engineer. When either system can be used it resolves itself into a question of primary cost and annual maintenance.
The slow sand filters cost, approximately, $30,000 per million gallons of the daily consumption, and about ten per cent of this per annum for operating, while a mechanical filter costs about one-fourth, and, if carefully operated, a high degree as regards purification can be obtained. This is well exemplified in Chatham, Ontario, where for some years filters of this latter class have been in operation, the water treated being that of the river Thames.

SOCIALISM IN JAPAN

In connection with the discovery of the alleged plot to kill the mikado, the first conspiracy of the kind which it is said has existed, the name of the socialist party of Japan is brought in, says an exchange. Socialism in Japan cannot be said to have existed before 1898, at which time a club took up the study. Its members belonged to a Unitarian society and for that reason Socialism has always been associated in the Japanese mind with Christianity. The Social Democratic party was organized in 1901 and put out a manifesto not unlike the basis of western Socialism. It declares for the abolition of armaments, the equitable distribution of wealth, public ownership of land necessary for production, and of all transportation lines, an eight hour day, a limit to house rents, equal political rights, and universal suffrage. When the manifesto was issued the government suppressed the party.

This had the expected consequences.
The propaganda spread by word of mouth and certain newspapers helped it along by pretending to denounce the doctrine, which they printed in full. When the Russian war came on one newspaper was suppressed for opposing the struggle. Its owners were imprisoned and the company dissolved. After that the party divided into two groups, one advocating the spiritual side of the doctrine and the other holding that religion in any form was incompatible with the doctrine. Four years ago the government authorized the organization of the Socialist party. The objects of this were to spread the doctrines of Socialism so far as could be done within the constitution. Since that time Socialist ideas have made wide circulation in the empire, in spite of the opposition of the Tories, who made a strong fight to prevent the sanctioning of the party organization and who have contended that the Socialists had for their object the subverting of the constitution. The government evidently holds the same views, for it has maintained its hostile attitude towards the party, which it felt it could not forbid, and it has not hesitated at repressive measures.

This it believed it was justified in doing, because two years ago one branch of the party advocated the destruction of the present social system.
This doctrine is said to have found many followers, and so loud a noise have they made that Socialism at first conceived by the Japanese has been well nigh lost sight of. Hard times and high prices since the war have helped to swell the ranks of the radicals, but up to the present time their bark has been worse than their bite. If it is true that a real assassination plot has been discovered it may now be blamed upon the Socialists, in whose ranks are some of the best educated men in the empire.

Having adopted so many things from the Occident, perhaps it is not strange that, despite the oriental patience and obedience, the Japanese are feeling the social ferment of the west.

ONE EYED

From the Calgary News.

President Rowley, at the banquet of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in Vancouver last night said,
"I have no other politics than protection and I hope none of you have." But if a farmer dares express his desire for a reasonable tariff, the manufacturers yet about parochialism and sectionalism and delude themselves into thinking they are the most important element in Canada.

UP TO THE MINUTE

From the Hamilton Spectator.

The Australian government seems to be grasping the problem of statecraft at both ends. Not long ago the Kitchener plan of defence was favorably considered, and now comes the announcement that a liberal subsidy has been voted to the Independent Press Cable association, under terms that will make it quite easy for the newspapers of the commonwealth to publish up-to-date cable news from Europe and America. Our sister dominion is certainly keeping step with the age's progress.

SUPERSTITIOUS

From the Holden Herald.

Persons who believe in luck and car on Thursday, or to have a brick wall fall on you on Friday, or marry

there is food for only ten.

TAKE A TRIP EAST

From the Brantford Expositor.

The members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, now on a visit to the west, made a rather novel proposition to the Western Grain Growers the other day. It was that they should come east and inform themselves relative to the condition of the various manufacturing industries, and they were promised a good time if they would consent. The proposition is a novel one, and perhaps not one likely to be accepted, and yet it would be to the great advantage of the whole country were this to be done. It is just by such means that a broad Cana-dianism is cultivated and sectionalism and selfishness destroyed.

THE EAGLES ENTERTAIN

Local Aerie Had Successful Smoker On Saturday.

Sandwiches, Segars, Strength, Speeches and Song" was the order of the evening at the Eagle's smoker in Oddfellows' Hall last Saturday.

The Eagles are known all over Canada and the States as entertainers of note, and Edmonton Aerie clearly upheld the reputation of the order.

Nearly 150 well-known Edmontonians took advantage of the invitation to be present and after a very enjoyable evening wended their way homewards, all unanimously declaring "that a pleasant time was had."

Besides the local brothers and their visitors there were present, visiting Eagles from as far south as Richmond, Virginia, and as far north as Dawson, while Seattle had two or three representatives. The worthy president, Jos. A. Clarke, presided over the duties of chairman in his usual capable manner, and when Joe, in honeyed tones, asked everybody present for a speech, the speech was generally forthcoming.

Ed Cummings gave an address on the Grand Aerie meeting at St. Louis, Mr. Collier told the Southern Aeries, and Dr. Robertson reminisced in an entertaining manner on the old days in Dawson. Jos. Adair, Wm. McAdams and Chas. May spoke on behalf of the visitors and thanked the Eagles for their hospitality.

The strength part of the program was a four round boxing exhibition provided by those favorites, Jimmy Potts of Minneapolis, and Bud Buttrick of Minnesota. The contest was boxed under straight rules and the referee, Egan Fisher, had an easy task. Both boxers mixed matters up handsomely, the large gloves used precluding any damage and enthusiastic applause greeted the clever work of both men.

In the fourth and final round Jimmy gave a clever burlesque of a boxer hitting the count of nine on two occasions, but always manager to get up just in time to avert being counted out. The exhibition certainly made a big hit with the spectators.

Music was supplied throughout the evening, a pianist and Tom Irving with the violin and it lived up any pause in the entertainment that might have occurred. The smoker broke up before 12 o'clock with everybody with the feeling that it might only be the first of many similar entertainments.

NATIONALS GOT A BAD DEFEAT

Score of 11-1 Was Most Decisive Beating in History of Minto Cup

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 26.—The New Westminster lacrosse team Saturday not only successfully defended the Minto Cup in the final game of the series with the Nationals of Montreal, but also administered the most decisive beating to the challengers on record in any game for possession of the trophy. The final score was eleven goals to one in favor of Westminster, making the combined score in the two games on which the possession of the trophy rested, eighteen goals to four. The two teams took the field apparently weakened from last Saturday's lineup, Galbraith being of the Westminster team because of his father's death, while Lalonde was not with the Nationals, being confined to the Vancouver hospital as a result of a bad case of blood poisoning which is said to have been caused by his wiping a scratched face with a dirty towel during the last match. Beauchamp replaced Lalonde and Hugh Clark took Galbraith's position. Score by quarters:

First quarter—	New Westminster—G. Spring .7-12
Nationals—Secours .0-0
Second quarter—	New Westminster—G. Spring .0-28
Nationals—Secours .0-0
Third quarter—	New Westminster—G. Spring .4-11
Nationals—Secours .0-0
Fourth quarter—	New Westminster—Wintemute .9-03

BRONCHOS WERE NOT VERY WILD

Only One Outlaw Succeeded in Tossing His Rider—Local Talent Did Not Appear

A Western exhibition for western people, caused over 1000 people to see their way to Diamond Park on Saturday afternoon to see the bucking bronchos throw their riders skywards.

At the conclusion of the performance, there were various opinions expressed. Some went home, saying "muzzing the word 'Stung' while others were satisfied, and said they were glad it was a cowboy and not themselves, who rode the last bronco. It looks very easy from the sidelines to sit on a big cow paddie attached to a fiery 'outlaw' but, probably, when one starts something, the thing is not quite so easy.

The Medicine Hat riders had about fifteen horses with them, each being ridden in turn and ridden by Rio Grande, Herb, Clarke or others of the five riders. The first horses sent from the corral did not appear very fiery and outside a few perfunctory bucks and side steps appeared more intent on running than in upsetting their riders. This began to pull on the spectators and sarcastic remarks were wafted from bleachers and grandstands towards the diamond, albeit, same baseball.

Finally, the silver tongued announcer, Fred the scound and said: "By request of the management the two horses left in the corral are the worst actors of the bunch." Admiration filled the hearts of the spectators at the thought of such a wonder working management, and they sat shivering on the stands, waiting expectantly for a terrible accident to happen.

The management then generously announced the offer for local riders to step forward and ride those "worst actors" but the crowding forward to take down the twenty-five lovely dollars, offered as a prize, was not visible to the naked eye.

The first bad actor was a beautiful sorrel and did not act any worse than some of its predecessors.

But, Bad Actor No. 11, was really the goods. A more treacherous looking beast has seldom been seen here, and its actions when being saddled, showed the crowd that there would be some action when the blinders were removed. Herb, Clarke received the doubtful honor of riding the outlaw and was no sooner in the saddle than the horse made a dash for the grand stand showing a few tricks of bucking that were highly appreciated. Horse and rider rushed along the front of the stand and made a bee line for the visiting party's bench. When it appeared as if Clarke would crash into the zinc roof he leaped over in his saddle averting danger of being killed, but with fatal results in another direction. He lost his balance, and an energetic jump from Mr. Horse, sent the cowboy shooting through the air. This was the liveliest moment of the day and Clarke was followed back to the corral by a crowd of admiring small boys.

An exhibition of roping horses followed, and a local man showed how the cowboys ship the rope. This ended the afternoon's entertainment.

AS TO THAT CHAMPIONSHIP

(Lebridge Courier.)

Calgary had a fair pitching staff, at least the equal of any other in the league, if not the superior, but it was hitting and not pitching that put Calgary up in front. For instance they scored 27 runs in one game with Regina simply because the homeplate couldn't produce anything better than a bunch of overgrown busmen with the solitary exception of Skeels, now with Detroit, and perhaps Sage, who was extremely good, but not so good as Skeels, and a few more Eskimos, but the latter also got to Manning, Gehan and Standridge, but neither team scored very heavily on the other in any game. Both teams, however, unmercifully walloped Lebridge, Brandon, Moose Jaw and other teams possessing weak pitchers with the result that a squabble still exists as to whether Edmonton or Calgary are the real champions. At any rate one of them is first and the other second and all the others left without argument as to where they stand.

BEST PRACTISE
OF THE SEASON

Eskimos Worked Out for Two Hours on Saturday—Are Beginning to Show Class

The Eskimos were disappointed on Saturday in not getting a game with the Edmonton Y.M.C.A., but the latter found it impossible to put a team in the field, and will forego organizing this season.

However about 16 of the city team appeared at the grounds and after being fitted out in the new blue and white suits, got right down to business. Coach Belanger was in charge, and was assisted by Percy Hardisty, Rev. Robt. Pearson and Hal Burnham of the selection committee. For two hours, the players were put through a hard drill in tackling, following up punts, with scrimmages and team play. It was without doubt the best work-out this season, and prospects are beginning to look bright for a strong team.

Those out were, Back division, Dykes, Wilson, Conway, McPherson, Scrimmage, Barnes, Rodgers and Kennedy. Wings, Odonaghue, Clarke, Cormack, Crickmore, Murphy, C. E. MacDonald, Houghton, Grant, Chown, and others. Absentees were Barsille, McCurdy, Bishop, Gibson, Grieves, Alec McDonald, who are requested to be on this afternoon for sure.

The team will practice every afternoon this week at 5 o'clock and at the Calgary Y.M.C.A. play here next Saturday, it is absolutely necessary that every candidate for the local team turn out regularly.

Percy Hardisty was booing the ball ground on Saturday and there is a chance, and a good one too, of the former Argonaut star, appearing regularly with the Eskimos. If he does so, his spiral punts will make the opposing halves think they are at an avian level.

Dykes, the pocket Hercules, had his first tryout at quarter back, and took to his new position like a duck to water. This position was giving the selection committee a lot of worry, but it looks now as if Tommy will fill the bill splendidly.

The wings are following down like young clydeons, Odonaghue and Scrapper McDonald being very much in evidence with their hard, low tackling.

The scrimmage will be both heavy and fast with Kennedy, Barnes, Bishop, and Alec MacDonald to choose from, and the Calgary teams will have a different forward line to back than they did last Autumn. Dr. Wilson and Conway are showing up fine at the outside half positions.

In a letter received from the secretary of the Calgary Y.M.C.A., he states that a large excursion here arranged for the Saturday game being.

TO THE AUDIENCE

AT THE EMPIRE.

The public judges a theatrical company very largely by their prosperous appearance by its standing and reputation to please and by the recognized ability of its membership to properly produce such plays as they set forth to the public. Again to fulfill its obligations which W. A. Partello, manager of Alice Kennedy and her associates players (never exaggerated) with a reputation for fair dealing with courteous and absolutely fair treatment of all patrons, is essential to the success of a theatrical organization.
This is the distinction that the management of Alice Kennedy in "Lena Rivers" bears in things theatrical, a distinction gained by faithfully fulfilling every promise as to its anti-ences at all times, that is why this company enjoys the prestige and confidence of the public in every city wherever they have appeared. In presenting Alice Kennedy in Edmonton, Mr. Partello is presenting one of the cleverest, and best little actresses on the American stage. In the title role of "Lena" a part which she created, Miss Kennedy gives a perfect definition of that poor little orphan, Lena. Jack Westerman that clever little comedian, and the rest of the company give excellent support to Miss Kennedy. Lena Rivers will be presented tonight, Tuesday, Wednesday nights and a vis special bargain matinee Wednesday.

AT THE LYCEUM.

"Our Adonis" is the alluring bill that Sherman's Musical Comedy company has to offer at the Lyceum commencing with the matinee today. This mirth provoking comedy has not been seen locally in a considerable period and it should prove a particularly acceptable show when presented in the magnificent fashion that Thomas J.
Beeson is to present it.It has a good plot with ludicrous incidents in abundance and it will be beautifully staged and costumed. The piece abounds in good songs and musical accompaniments. It has many pretty dances and will afford varied entertainment.Tom Beeson will handle his familiar comic party and surrounding equipment as always to furnish a company, equipped with good material and capable of making the most of matters at hand.There will be the usual matinees this week at 3.15 and two shows at night with an entire change of program twice a week.

REV. J. A. DUCLOS CRITICIZES
REV. FATHER VAUGHN'S SERMONInteresting Sermon Was Delivered at Eskrine Presbyterian Church Yesterday.

DISCUSSED COMMUNION

Minister Declares All Catholic Nations are Decadent—Points to Spain and Portugal.The sermon of the Rev. J. E. Duclos, of Eskrine Presbyterian Church, yesterday evening, had to do with the Eucharistic union held recently in Montreal, and the utterances it called forth from Protestant pulpits. Mr.
Duclos dealt at length with the congress, pointing out in what way lay only the failure of Rome's position in arguing to herself the title of the one true church. Starting from his text in Matt. vii. 15, his whole effort was an examination of Rome and her work, for "by their fruits ye shall know them."The sermon concluded with an appeal to Protestants and Catholics to co-operate for the common good of Canada.The Eucharistic Congress, said Mr.
Duclos, held recently in Montreal, is now a matter of the past, but its echoes are still heard throughout the Dominion.The significance of this ecclesiastical council is more than can be conjectured, and too far reaching in its aims to allow it to pass without comment.Being the first assembly of the kind ever held in America and its delegates being welcomed with civic recognition it distinctly singled out Canada as a Roman Catholic country, and Mon-real as the Rome of America, when in fact Canada is in large majority Protestant, with Protestant enterprise and enlightenment, and under the jealous protection of the British flag.The whole congress was marked with pomp, a desire for temporal power and exclusiveness of Christian faith, save in the Church of Rome.Yet Protestants did what they could to make the reception agreeable and pleasant to the distinguished visitors, for it is the aim of Protestants the world over to welcome any society or organization which may come to their borders. In the name of peace and righteousness.It was, however, clearly demonstrated that no religious community can be at peace with Rome unless it believes as she does.The Rev. Father Vaughan, one of the ablest divines, gave characteristic significance to the Congress by throwing into the Protestant camp a bombshell which aroused indignation among every denomination.The reverend gentleman was severely criticized both from pulpits in Quebec and Ontario and through press editorials. One of the things he was charged with saying against Protestants is that "it was the genius of Protestantism to invent a religion without sacrifice, a religion without a soul."I do not accept the grace with which Father Vaughan spoke against Protestantism much less his interpretation of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper.
But, I admire his frankness of speech. He, no doubt, was in earnest and was justified as a preacher, to state what he believes and to enunciate the principles of his church.He must aside diplomacy and declared in no uncertain sound what Rome believes and what she thinks of Protestantism.In other words he defined the attitude of Rome to the Reformed faith.
He has demonstrated that Rome is still the foe of Protestantism and that outside of the Roman Catholic Church there is no salvation.Protestantism, he says, is a religion without a soul—without sacrifice and the reason is found in the interpretation of the Lord's Supper.According to the Roman Catholic belief the bread and wine, or the Eucharist, by a prayer of the officiating priest, becomes the real body and blood of Christ, with soul and divinity.
Christ's words, in the institution of the Holy Sacrament, are therefore taken literally.But when Christ says: "This is my body—this is my blood," he speaks figuratively. Figurative or metaphorical speech was in common use then, as it is now. It illustrates and strengthens the meaning conveyed.Christ says: "I am the vine, ye are the branches." It is clear that this is not to be taken literally. And so in regard to the Sacrament.The bread and wine represents the body and blood of Christ. According to the Protestant belief there is no transubstantiation but symbolization.But theological definitions are not the most convincing methods of argument—Christ indicates as much when in his sermon on the mount he says:
"Ye shall know them by their fruit."This the best way of judging a religious system.Father Vaughan railed against the Reformers of the 16th century and spoke as if Protestantism had no right to be. He calls Protestantism an invention. But he does not stop to consider on historical grounds whether Roman Catholicism or Protestantism displayed the genius of invention.The work of the Reformation was no invention! But it was because of the inventions of Rome and the introduction of unwarranted dogmas among the doctrines of Christianity that the Reformers rose in the name of the living God and of pure and unadulterated religion, in order to bring the Church back where it stood in the days of the Apostles. Father Vaughan speaks as if the Reformers were responsible, not only for the apostasy of the 16th century, but also for the present day infidelity, when in fact the Reformers saved half of Europe and North America from unbelief and decadence.Father Vaughan's vituperative utterance against the Reformers was practically an apology for the dying faith of his Church. He unwittingly admitted this when he said that "He found consolation in the fact that through some of the Latin races were wearing out, that there still was Belgium which was solidly Catholic. And there was a portion of Germany true to Catholicism, that there was light in the United States, and that there was Catholic Canada, with Montreal as the Rome of the New World."If the Latin races which have been cradled and taught by Rome during the last three centuries are now wearing out, are the Reformers to blame?
The answer is obtained from practical sources.At the opening of the late Spanish American war, Senor Capivi, ex-president of Italy, in denouncing a struggle

The Season's Novelties
in Fine MillineryAn unwritten law in correct styles for this Fall is that small hats have high crowns while the large hats have small; the backward slant to high crowns in turbans and small hats, and the tendency to place trimming so as to glide from the face at a sharp angle, are also marked features of this Fall millinery. Every trim invariably droops at some point. This is particularly noticeable in some of the larger hats with the poke effect, which shows a bewitchingly saucy bend in the front wide brim. Some of the late arrivals are worthy of individual description. This, of course, is impossible for want of space, but they await your inspection.

their love of the Bible, their robust character, their aggressive spirit and independence of thought.

England, old England, is the centre of Christian civilization, and as the head of the greatest Empire the world ever knew.

And why is Great Britain to-day the greatest nation in the world? Because she accepted the Reformation? And where could a more beautiful a more promising country be found in the 16th century than France? Holding as she did then the first place in Europe, she was the pride of Rome and of the Latin race.

Now France can little more than hold a second place among the nations, and she is branded by Roman Catholic dignitaries with infidelity. Why such decadence? Because France in the 16th century refused the Reformation?

I speak tonight on this subject not merely to show how Protestantism was valued and despised by one of the leading priests at the Congress, but to warn Protestants against the repetition in Canada of the papal regime which has proven a desolation to Catholic nations in Europe. It is not the Catholic Church in Canada that Protestants oppose, but Rome's aim at temporal power.

The Rev. Father Vaughan is also reported to have said what all Roman Catholic dignitaries believe, that the "Catholic Church is the one and true Church." This excludes Protestantism from the pale of the Christian Church taking the term Catholic as viewed by the distinguished divine.

This is a gross reflection on Protestantism. Yet we smile at such an illiberal notion, for a tree is judged by its fruits.

Protestants are more generous and enlightened than that. They see good in every church. And there are Roman Catholics who are not so blind but they can see that Protestantism is not a "senseless religion." And there are priests in Canada who will say that men can be saved in the Protestant as well as the Catholic faith.

And whilst Protestantism has proven to be the more progressive, vigorous and tolerant form of Christianity, the one and true Church is not to be found in any one religious system. But it is to be found by taking all that is best and divine in Catholicism, in Presbyterianism, in Anglicanism, in Methodism, in the Salvation Army, and all other Christian bodies. Then, and then only, do we get the true Church.

In other words, the true Church is she which faithfully carries out Christ's orders. She which can lift the human race to the highest plane of enlightenment and Christian service.

In this great Dominion of ours we want the co-operation of all the Church forces irrespective of name, in order to combat the monster evils arising on every side. May Catholics and Protestants unite in making Canada a great Christian nation.

Already in some parts of the East Roman Catholic priests and Protestant ministers have stood together against the liquor traffic, against social vice and degradation of the Lord's Day, and their united efforts have been a power for good.

Let there be, therefore, no exclusion from the arena of Christian activity on mere theological lines, but let the spirit of unity and friendship be fostered.

Let the spirit of Christ so prevail in our hearts that we may sink all sectional differences for the highest good of our beloved Canada.

Then righteousness and benevolence will rule in our land and the banner of peace will float from ocean to ocean.

MISSION FESTIVAL

The German Evangelical Lutheran St. Peter's church, corner Third and Nelson street, belonging to the Missouri Synod, celebrated its annual mission festival yesterday in its chapel and at the same time commemorated the fourth anniversary of the dedication of its church. It is customary in the Lutheran church the world over to set aside a certain Sunday, on which to hear of the progress made on the various mission fields and on which a special offering is taken for the sole benefit of the missions. These annual mission festivals as they are termed, enable the Lutheran church to carry on its extensive missions in India, among the negroes of the south, Indians, emigrants, in Australia and other places.

Such was the festival which brought people from Leche, Stony Plain and Bruderheim, to St. Peter's yesterday. In both morning and afternoon services the church was packed to the very doors. The fourth anniversary was celebrated in the morning service. The Rev. E. Eberhardt, of Stony Plain, the veteran among the Lutheran ministers in point of service in Alberta, spoke eloquently on Exodus, 19:6, showing that a church, be it ever so small, in which the word of God is preached in all its purity is indeed a temple of the Most High. And that on the other hand, a church, be it the stateliest edifice, in which the Bible does not reign, is nothing more than a temple of idolatry.

The assembly followed his discourse with rapt attention to the end. After the service all repaired to a neighboring house, where the ladies auxiliary had prepared a sumptuous meal. Here everybody was more than welcome and all enjoyed the hospitality of the ladies of the church.

At 3 o'clock the real mission services began. Again the little church was crowded. The Rev. T. O. Herzer of Canmore, delivered the mission sermon, choosing as a text the words of John 12:32. He was followed by the Rev. O. H. Schmidt, of Wetaskiwin, who lectured on the missionary activity of the church at all times. He began with Adam, showing how he preached to the unbelievers of his time, especially interesting was his account of the missionary journeys of St. Paul. Again the offering was taken, this time for the benefit of the mission of the Lutheran church.

When all had partaken of the liberal supper furnished by the ladies of the church, one after the other left and this morning's trains took the last visitors to their homes, who had again learned that it is the church's first duty to preach the gospel to all the world.

St. Peter's Lutheran Church has prospered greatly in the four years of its existence, under the wise direction of the Rev. H. L. Schultz. Although but small in number, it now owns its own church and manse.

Dining services are held every Sunday morning and evening in the German language, and every German who may be in Edmonton temporarily or permanently will always find a cordial welcome at their house of worship. Besides the Rev. H. L. V. Schultz also teaches parochial school, where not only the customary elementary branches of English and arithmetic are taught, but also religion, and the German language.

Ella Foster, secured judgment for $38.60 in the police court this morning against S. Schultz, the plaintiff claiming that wages to that amount were due her. Albert Crux for riding a bicycle on the sidewalk was fined $1 and costs. Three drunks were assessed $4 and costs or ten days.

Make Every Dollar Worth More Than a Dollar

AN EDUCATED ad. reader will never be poor. To "know advertising" is to have a practical knowledge of values—of things—of when and how and where to buy. No one, having and utilizing such knowledge, could ever be unthrifty, or in any sense careless or reckless of expenses. For such knowledge makes for thrift—for saving. It makes one proof against shams—false values—manipulated reductions.

The intelligent ad. reader uses as much thought, consideration, education and ability in buying things as is required in earning the money that is spent for them. And that amounts to a substantial increase of the value of every dollar of the family revenue!

for the killing of Moreau by the prisoner, but Frederick had had motive enough in his accusation. It had been open knowledge that he hated Hugh Stiles, and his own character made it evident that he would not have scrupled to fasten a murder upon him.

But as Felder studied the twelve grave faces in the jury box, who in the last analysis were all that counted, he shared his client's helplessness. Judgment and experience told him how futile were all theories in the face of that inarticulate but damning witness that Frederick had left behind him. So the afternoon dragged through, a day for the state.

Sunset came early that season. Dark fell, and the electric bulbs made their mimic day, but no one left the room. The outcome seemed a foregone conclusion. The juryman no longer gazed at the prisoner, and when they looked at one another it was with grim understanding. As the last witness for the state stepped down and the prosecutor rested the judge glanced at the clock.

"There is a bare half hour," he said tentatively. "Perhaps the defense would prefer not to open testimony till tomorrow?"

Felder had risen. He saw his opportunity—to bring out sharply a contrasting point in the prisoner's favor, the one circumstance, considered apart, pointing toward innocence rather than guilt; to leave this for the jury to take with them, to offset by its effect the weight of the evidence that had been given.

"I will proceed, if your honor please," he said and amid a rustle of surprise and interest called Jessica to the stand.

As she went forward to the witness chair she put back the shivering veil, and her face, pale as brimble bloom under her red bronzed hair, made an appealing picture. A cluster of white carations was pinned to her coat, and as she passed Harry she bent and laid one in his hand. The slight act, lost upon the spectators, called forth a sibilant flutter of sympathy, for it was no touch of designed effect. Its impulse was as pure and unmistakable as its meaning.

Harry had started uncontrollably as she rose, for he had had no lacking of the lawyer's intention, and a flush darkened his cheek at the cool touch of the flower. But this faded to a settled pallor as under Felder's grave questioning she told in a voice as clear as a child's, yet with a woman's emotion struggling through it, the story of her disregarded warning. While she spoke pain and shame traveled through his every vein, for, though technically she had not brought herself into the perplexing purview of the law, she was laying bare the secret of her own heart, which now he would have covered at any cost.

"That is all, your honor," said Felder when Jessica had finished her story. "Do you wish to cross examine?"

The prosecutor looked at her instantly. He saw the faltering in her eyes, the twitching of the gloved hand on the rail. "By no means," he said courteously and turned to his papers. At the same moment as Jessica stepped into the open aisle the ironic chance treated the spectral audience to a novel sensation. Every electric light suddenly went out, and darkness swooped upon the town and the courtroom. Hush arose—people stood up in their places.

The judge's gavel pounded violently, and his stentorian voice bellowed for order.

"Keep your seats, everybody!" he commanded. "Mr. Clerk, get some candles. This court is not yet adjourned."

As the pall of darkness fell upon the courtroom it brought to Jessica a sense of premonition as though the incident prefigured the gloomy end. She turned sick and stumbled down the aisle, feeling that she must reach the outer air. In the room Jessica had left the turmoil was smoldering down. Here and there a match was struck and showed a circle of brightness. The glimmer of one of them lit the countenance of a man who had brushed her sleeve as he entered. It was Halleujah Jones.

"Wait, wait!" he cried. "I have evidence to give!" He pointed excitedly toward Harry. "This man is not what you think. He is not!"

The judge's gavel thumped upon the wood. "How dare you," he roared, "break in upon the deliberations of this court! I fine you $20 for contempt." Felder had leaped to his feet. What could this man know? He took a bill from his pocket and clapped it down on the clerk's desk.

"I beg to purge him of contempt," he said, "and call him on a witness."

Halleujah Jones snatched the Bible from the clerk's hands and kissed it. Knowledge was burning his tongue. The jury were leaning forward in their seats.

"Have you ever seen the prisoner before?" asked Felder.

"Yes."

"When?"

"When he was a minister of the gospel."

Felder stared. The judge frowned. The jury looked at one another, and a hush ran round the hushed room.

The minister kindled the evangelist's stammered passion. Sudden anger flamed in him. He leaned forward and shook his hand vehemently at the table where Harry sat, his face as colorless as the flower he wore.

"That man's name," he blazed, "is not Hugh Stiles. It is a cloak he has chosen to cover his shame. He is the Rev. Henry Sanderson of Aniston."

Harry's pulses had leaped with excitement when the street preacher's first exclamation startled the courtroom; now they were beating as though they must burst through the air about him he heard the crisp voice of the district attorney:

"I ask your honor's permission before this extraordinary witness is examined further," he said caustically, "to read an item printed here which has a bearing upon the testimony."

He held in his hand a newspaper which earlier in the afternoon, with cynical disregard of Felder's tactics, he had been casually perusing.

"Read it, sir."

Holding the newspaper to a candle, the lawyer read in an even voice, prefacing his reading with the journal's name and date:

"This city, which was aroused in the night by the burning of St. James' chapel will be greatly shocked to learn that its pastor, the Rev. Henry Sanderson, who has been for some months on a prolonged vacation, was in the building at the time and now lies at the city hospital, suffering from injuries from which it is rumored there is grave doubt of his recovery."

In the litter that rippled the court-room, Harry felt his heart bound and swell. Under the succinct statement he clearly discerned the fact. He saw the pitfall into which Hugh had fallen—the trap into which he himself had sent him on that fatal errand with the ruby ring on his finger. "Grave doubts of his recovery!" A surge of relief swept over him to his finger tips. He would be free to go back—to be himself again, to be Jessica's—if Hugh died. The reading voice drummed in his ears.

The facts have not as yet been ascertained, but it seems clear that the popular young man returned to town unexpectedly last night and was asleep in the building when the fire started. His presence in the building was unquestioned until too late, and it was by little more of a miracle that he was brought out alive.

As we go to press we learn that Mr. Sanderson's condition is much more hopeful than was first reported.

Harry's heart contracted as if a giant hand had clutched it. His elation felt like a rotten tree girdled at the base. If Hugh did not die! He chilled as though in a spray of liquid air. Hugh's escape—the chance his conscience had given him—was cut off.

The judge reached for the newspaper the lawyer held, ran his eye over it and brought his gavel down with an angry snarl.

"Take him away," he said. "His testimony is ordered stricken from the records. The fine is remitted. Mr. Felder, we can't make you responsible for imitations. The court stands adjourned."

Felder had been among the last to leave the courtroom. He was discomfited and angry. At the door of the courthouse Dr. Brent slipped an arm through his.

"Too bad, Tom," he said sympathetically. "I don't think you quite deserved it."

Felder paled a moment without speaking. "I need evidence," he said then; "anything that may help. I made a mistake. You heard all the testimony?"

The doctor nodded.

"What did you think of it?"

"What could any one think? I give all credit to your motive, Tom, but it's a pity you're mixed up in it."

"Why?"

"Because, if there's anything in human existence, let's be thoroughly worthless reprobates. He lay for Moreau and murdered him in cold blood, and he ought to swing."

"The casual view," said the lawyer gloomily. "Cast what I should have said myself—if this had happened a month ago."

His friend looked at him with an amused expression. "I begin to think he must be a remarkable man!" he said. "If it happens he has really convinced you for that he isn't guilty?"

Felder turned upon the doctor squarely. "Yes," he returned bluntly. "He has. Whatever I may have believed when I took this case, I have come to the conclusion—against all my professional instincts, mind you—that he never killed Moreau. I believe he's as innocent as either you or I!"

"He has as good as admitted to Miss Holmes that he knows who did it!"

"Come, come! Putting his neck into the noose for mere Quixotic feeling? And who, pray, in this God forsaken town, should he be sacrificing himself for?" the doctor asked satirically.

"That's the rub," said the lawyer. "Nobody. Yet I hang by my proposition."

"Well, yet hang by something less tenuous, I'm afraid. But it won't be your fault. The crazy evangelist was only an incident. He merely served to jolt us back to the normal. By the way, did you hear him splutter after he got out?"

"No."

"You remember the story told the other night of the minister who was caught gambling on his own conversion?"

Deluged the titanic unison table? Well, Hugh Stiles is not only the Reverend Henry Something-or-other, but he is that man too! The crack brain of that idiot would have told the tale all over again only the crowd bustled him. "There he is now," he said suddenly as a light sprang up and voices broke out on the opposite corner. "The gang is standing by. I see your friend Barney McElroy," he added, with a grim convert. "I doubt if there are many conversions tonight."

Even as he spoke there came a shout of laughter and warning. The spectators scattered in all directions, and a stream of water from a well directed hose deluged the itinerant and his music box.

Ten minutes later the street preacher, drenched and furious, was trundling his melodeon toward General Hollow, on his way to the coast.

Chapter 28

Harry stood again in the obscure half darkness he called it came to him that the present had a far-reaching significance; that it was but the hands work and resultant of forces in his own past. He himself had set Hugh's feet on the red path that had pointed him to the shameful terminus. He had gambled for Hugh's future, forgetting that his past remained, a thing that must be covered. He had won Hugh's counters, but his own right to be himself he had staked and lost long before that game on the communion table under the painted crucifixion.

The words he had once said to Hugh returned to him with a kind of awe: "Put myself in your place! I wish to God I could!"

Fate—or was it God?—had taken him at his word. He had been hurled like a stone from a catapult into Hugh's place—to bear his knavery, to suffer his dishonor and to redeem the baleful reputation he had made.

A step outside the cell, the turning of the key. The door opened, and Jessica, pale and trembling, stood on the threshold.

"I cannot help it," she said as she came toward him, "though you told me not to come. I have trusted all the while and waited—and prayed. But today I was afraid. Surely, surely, the man you are protecting has had time enough. Haven't he? Won't you tell them the truth now?"

He knew not how to meet the piteous reproach and terror of that look. She had not heard the street preacher's declaration, he knew, but even if she had it would have been to her only an echo of the old mooted likeness. He had given her comfort once, but this was no more to be, no matter what it meant to him or to her.

"Jessica," he said steadily, "when you came to me here that first day and I told you not to fear for me I did not mean to deceive you. I thought then that it would all come right. But something has happened since then—something that makes a difference. I cannot tell who was the murderer of Moreau. I cannot tell you or any one else, either now or at any time."

She stared at him startled. She had a sudden conception of some element hitherto unguessed in his makeup—something irreverent and adamant. Could it be that he did not intend to tell at all? The very idea was monstrous. Yet that clarity was his meaning. She looked at him with flashing eyes.

"You mean you will not?" she exclaimed bitterly. "You are bent on sacrificing yourself, then? You are going to take this risk because you think it brave and noble, because somehow it fits your own gospel, isn't it? You see how wicked and selfish it is? You are thinking only of him and of yourself, not of me."

"Jessica, Jessica!" he protested, with a groan. But in the soft torture of her questionings she paid no heed.

"Don't you think I suffer? Haven't I borne enough in the months since I married you for you to want to save me this? Do you owe me nothing, me whom you so wronged, whose?"

She stopped suddenly at the look on his face of mortal pain, for she had struck harder than she knew. It pierced

A SAFE THAT HAS STOOD THE TEST

Safes, good safes, are something that interest all business men. The Norris Safe and Lock Company, who are general agents for "The Hall's Safe Company," of Cincinnati, Ohio, are handling a safe of which they are justly proud. Although they did not have an exhibit at the local exhibition, more value to the man who is interested in safes than any mere exhibit. They have proofs of the actual work of the Hall's safe. These proofs come from Nelson, B. C. where one of their safes stood the extreme test of fire very successfully.

The following letters speak for themselves. They were sent to Mr. Percy Hall Johnson, the Calgary agent for the firm.

Percy H. Johnson, Esq., Norris Safe & Lock Co., (General Agts., The Hall's Safe Co., Cincinnati, Ohio), Calgary, Alta.

Dear Sir:

At the request of your representative Mr. R. F. Stevens, who asked me to write you in regard to the recent fire of July 5th, which totally destroyed the Kreschmer Shingle Mill, and the Kootenay Engineering Works, Ltd., also a number of other houses. The fire was one of the worst and hottest Nelson ever had, destroying property worth $15,000.

There is no building in Nelson that could burn and be any hotter than they have something which is of far that of the Kootenay Engineering Works, in which stood one of your No. 345 thin wall, double door, Hall's Safe. The heat was so intense that it was not approachable nearer than thirty yards, lasting about two hours. The water thrown towards it, with 120 pounds pressure per square inch, turned into steam and floated away on the breeze before reaching the burning flames. The dial was burned off, the bands twisted and the safe was badly warped from the intense heat, but it did the work it was built to do, for when opened by the manager of the Imperial Bank Mr. J. M. Lay, the contents were in good order, which could hardly be expected of any safe.

I would gladly recommend the Hall safe as to its fireproof qualities. Yours respectfully, D. GUTHRIE, Chief Nelson Fire Department, Nelson, B. C.

Percy H. Johnson, Esq., Norris Safe & Lock Co., (General Agents, The Hall's Safe Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.)

Dear Sir:

Kreschmer Shingle Mill Fire at Nelson, July 5, 1907.

I am in receipt of your favor dated July 5th, and in compliance with request therein beg to inform you, that I have visited the scene of fire mentioned above and made a thorough examination of the Hall's Safe, which came through this fire. With pleasure I am able to inform you that the safe has apparently suffered no damage. Am informed that this was an exceptionally hot fire, and it must be gratifying to learn that your safe stood the test so well.

TO BUILD A BIG STORE

First, Build a Big Merchant

Emerson said that "an institution is but the lengthened shadow of one man."

A store is no greater than its owner. It will grow up to the stature of his biggest ideas—but no larger.

Every store in this town is GROWING UP TO ITS OWNER'S SIZE.

So that, no matter how small it is today, it will become a big as he determines it shall be.

For your "natural merchant" is a big advertiser. He may be able, just now, to use but a small space—but he is getting ready to use big space. And he uses the small space PERSISTENTLY, making the advertising as inevitably a part of his expense as anything else—and aiming at a constant expansion of the space used.

That sort of merchant will Build a Big Store—for he is, potentially, a Big Merchant already.

MUCH TRAVELED DOGGIE KILLED

Came to Edmonton From England Only to run Over by a Street Car

Another traveller has gone to join the silent majority. Though only a dog he had seen more of the world than most human beings, and had passed through the varying tribulations of travel by ocean and rail in the utmost safety.

Hardly had this English doggy reached Edmonton after his journey of 5000 miles, than, travel-stained, he set out to see the city. The street cars were a novelty to him and in an earnest effort to get some first hand information as to the workings of municipal ownership, he ventured too close to the wheels.

The daring doggy unfortunately lost his footing and in a sportman's way under the car, and the bells were ringing in the canine heaven.
